

For those possibly interested in a course of study in Coaching . . .

WISR offers a course of study in coaching that enhances existing programs.

For those already enrolled in a coaching skills program and who want to further craft their studies and also seek an academic degree, WISR is the perfect solution.

We are a learning community

WISR has taken a “coach approach” in supporting a system where learners turn life focus and life purpose into a path to enjoy academic credit.

Studies at Harvard University and elsewhere suggest that there are eight forms of measurable intelligence. WISR is one of the few institutions for adult learning which recognizes and supports diversity in both form and function.

Are we the right fit for you?

Here are more than 50 reasons for joining the WISR learning community. See how they fit. If you relate to ten of these reasons--you're a great candidate and we would love to hear from you; if you check 25 or more please give us a call right away, we would be excited to work with you and help you to enroll as soon as you want to start!

1. You want to earn a Masters Degree and/or PhD
2. You want more than a just a “Coaching Designation”
3. You want to be a MasterCoach(sm)
4. Continuing Education Units or Academic Units
5. You want A Coach Approach to learning
6. You want to work with Learning Path Coaches(sm)
7. You enjoy learning and getting the facts at your own pace.
8. You want learning and coaching that is community based - even at a distance.

And here's 50 more reasons! . . .

1. You want to be part of a learning community , , , and/or you want . . .
2. interpersonal development
3. intrapersonal development
4. guerrilla marketing
5. socially responsible business coaching
6. cause-related development coaching
7. affordable but limited enrollment for our beta class
8. individualized

9. flexible learning - for active lifestyles - lifelong learning for adults
10. a place where learning from a distance doesn't mean going it alone
11. coaching as a change agent for social responsibility
12. You want to be more than to be a member of some institution's alumni, you want a lifelong learning and coaching community
13. You want to explore Organization and Community Coaching
14. learn to facilitate Group coaching
15. mediation and certification
16. you might wish to benefit from WISR's MFT (Marriage and Family Therapy) curriculum, maybe even to become a therapist using coaching skills
17. you want to be a coach vs. being a therapist
18. you want to be a therapeutic coach (sm)
19. you want to explore alternative conflict resolution and alternative dispute resolution.
20. We have been doing this for 33 years - we have experience.
21. You want to open new doors of opportunity and possibility
22. You want to reinvent your business
23. you want to develop and sharpen your skills
24. you want to experience a different approach to learning new things about yourself and others
25. You want to explore different styles of coaching
26. you want to be a change agent
27. you want to take coaching in a new direction
28. you want to experience and interact with a diverse learning community
29. you seek to better define your life learning path
30. you want to make better use of collaborative communication technology
31. you want to publish your work, and would like help doing that
32. you want a degree in psychology and don't want to be a regular psychologist
33. you want a degree in psychology, education or community development
34. you want a safe place to learn
35. you want to be self-challenged and motivated
36. you want to enjoy and be inspired by learning
37. you want to experience and learn about other cultures
38. you want to design your program around your passion
39. you want a choice of mentor programs
40. you want to do it your way
41. you want to keep earning while you are learning
42. you want to learn, get a degree and pay less for coach-guided learning that you would if you hired a coach.
43. you want to learn more about coaching by experiencing how master educators using coaching skills to facilitate learning – WISR faculty have decades of experience enabling others to learn in this way.
44. you want to use initial structured academic maps and calendaring with flexibility to change projects and personalize timelines.
45. you want to learn more about things you are passionate about.

46. you want to learn and accomplish some of those things you've been wanting to do for awhile, but haven't quite gotten around to . . . without the support and help of experienced educators who are committed to helping you achieve YOUR goals!
47. you can just hire a coach or you can be coached to earn a degree while you build bridges to the next important things you want to do with your life.
48. you want to learn with others who are as excited and committed about their learning as you are about your learning.
49. you're not sure you want to be a coach but you are sure you want to learn more and move forward creatively with your life.
50. you want to be part of a multicultural learning community.